THE INVITATION TO TRUST

September 7, 2025

KEY SCRIPTURE

- Isaiah 55:1–9
- Proverbs 3:5–6
- Psalm 23:1–3
- Matthew 11:28–30
- John 15:5

KEY POINTS

- God continually invites us to come to Him, offering living water without cost.
- Faith believes in who God is; trust acts on that belief.
- Trusting God means releasing control and resting in His ways, even when they don't make sense.
- Our own understanding is limited; God's thoughts and ways are higher than ours.
- When trust deepens, peace and joy replace anxiety and fear.
- Broken trust with people can wound deeply, but God's covenant love is steadfast and sure.
- Trusting God glorifies Him and transforms our souls more than striving ever can.

DISCUSSION

- What's the difference between faith and trust in your own walk with God?
- Why do we often struggle to let go of control and rest in God's promises?
- Which part of Isaiah 55 speaks most to your current season of life?
- How have you experienced peace or joy by trusting God in a difficult time?
- What practical steps can help you lean less on your own understanding this week?
